SAYS GOAL KINGS CONTROL

New York, Nov. 28.—The mining companies deny their workers the right to organize in any organization which is strong enough to affect working conditions. They say that the only way to get a man back to work is on condition that he give up his membership card in the union and promise never to join any other union while in their employ.

The above is one of the indictments against Colorado coal operators contained in the annual report of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, made public by Rev. Henry A. Atkinson, associate secretary, an inveterate foe of the American coal companies for their attitude in the Colorado strike.

After reviewing the trouble in Colorado, the report says:

"The coal companies dominate the political life of the state. They have bought the election of the judges, sheriffs, and members of the legislature. They have bought the election of the judges, sheriffs, and members of the legislature. They have bought the election of the judges, sheriffs, and members of the legislature."

Further, the report says: "It is impossible to have a high wage scale, except by practically closing the door to all who may incur the penalty of the coal companies."

"Thirty years of oppression, in which the social and economic conditions of the miners that their only hope is in the union. An individual miner can do nothing; if he protests he loses his job. He is too poor to fight. He is too weak to deal with hired gunmen, who are kept at the mines to do the will of the coal companies."

"The soldiers were badly received by the strikers, for some protection, but their hopes were vain. It soon became evident that the military was in the hands of the coal companies."

"The military, instead of aiming to protect the strikers, was used to break the strike. The military was used to break the strike. The military was used to break the strike."

"The military was used to break the strike. The military was used to break the strike. The military was used to break the strike."

WANT SCORES OF MINIMUMS

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 28.—While friends of the minimum wage-by-law system have been clamoring for a law based on living standards, the National Labor Relations board has given an impetus to their contention in this city, declare these manufacturers.

"These manufacturers are not in favor of a general minimum wage for all workers in the industry, but they do favor the various vocational regulations of living costs. They declare it 'unfair' that one minimum should apply to women employed in factories, laundries, shops, offices and in other lines of work, as most of these are 'unskilled laborers,' and are not entitled to high compensation, as are professional stenographers, bookkeepers, designers and trained workers."

An average minimum wage to women workers in a state, established by law, was also protested on the ground that, even though paid nominal wages, they unjustly receive compensation equal to other employees of training and value. President Miller insisted that one minimum wage 'robs many veteran employees of their jobs.'"

The convention went on record as favoring a 'skill' wage system, and believed that various grades should be paid according to the value of their work. The question of what it is to do was given a grant concession."

UNIONS CAN REDUCE WORKS. Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor, in its efforts to secure a general regulation of wages and hours of labor should be undertaken through trade union action, and that no such action, except in so far as the employment of women workers is concerned, should be undertaken by the national, state or local labor organizations.

Further, the resolution declared that above resolution, adopted by the A. F. of L. convention, is another affirmative resolution, to be made more effective institution to reduce hours and increase wages. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 1,000 to 100.

WAGES OF TEXTILE WORKERS

Washington, Nov. 28.—In a report issued by the United States Department of Labor, showing the wages of textile workers in the industry by the American Federation of Labor and the United Textile Workers, it gives an impetus by the publication of this report, which shows the low wages paid.

The average full-time weekly earnings in 1912 in the cotton goods industry, for the seven different occupations recorded, was $10.14 a week. This included male and female workers.

In woolen and worsted goods, the average for six occupations, male and female, was $10.2 a week. Here the highest was $12.3 for milliners, and the lowest $7.2 for frame spinners.

In silk goods the rates ranged from $17.1 a week for male loom fixers to $9.20 for the eleven occupations was $10.7 a week.

While these figures are pitifully small, they are not out of line with other years. The average for 1911 was $10.7 per cent higher than in 1911, and 67 per cent higher than in 1911, and 67 per cent higher than in 1911.

HOW LABOR CAN AVOID WAR

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—In a leading editorial, The Bulletin makes this reference to the situation in the navy yard, since been unanimously endorsed by the board of directors of the A. F. of L.:

"If the American Federation of Labor stands fast against war, and if its executive board has decided to stand against all public policies which lead to war, it is expected, except in the case of Alaska, to attend to their necessary work before 3 o'clock in the morning, during the noon hour, and after 5 o'clock in the evening. Men who could not put themselves of the habit of visiting the yard, it stated, would be liable to be charged. The workers insist they will join with any reasonable measure to prevent the waiting time, but this, they declare, is 'arbitrary and tyrannical.'"

Another grievance is the penalties for lateness. A man who is late for work more than five times in a month will be fined one day. If he has already done one day of the penalty, he will be fined two days. If he has already done two days of the penalty, he will be fined three days. If he has already done three days of the penalty, he will be fined four days. If he has already done four days of the penalty, he will be fined five days. If he has already done five days of the penalty, he will be fined six days. If he has already done six days of the penalty, he will be fined seven days. If he has already done seven days of the penalty, he will be fined eight days. If he has already done eight days of the penalty, he will be fined nine days. If he has already done nine days of the penalty, he will be fined ten days. If he has already done ten days of the penalty, he will be fined eleven days. If he has already done eleven days of the penalty, he will be fined twelve days. If he has already done twelve days of the penalty, he will be fined thirteen days.
